WINE AND GRAPE HISTORY IN THE SYDNEY REGION

The history of the Australian wine industry had its beginnings with the arrival of the first fleet into Sydney Cove.

The first vines arrived in Australia in 1788 with Captain Phillip on board one of the ships of the First Fleet. These vines were first planted out at Farm Cove - the site of the present Sydney Botanical Gardens. Unfortunately, the vines did not bear as expected, and were soon transplanted to a new location at Parramatta. In 1791, Governor Phillip reported that he had established a three-acre vineyard at Parramatta, and that a settler named Schaffer had also planted one acre of vines.

In following years, many others attempted to establish wine grape growing and winemaking ventures in various regions of the colony.

Notable amongst these were the pioneering efforts of Captain John Macarthur, to whom a grant of land some thirty miles from Sydney was made, and which he named Camden Park. This property played a major part in the development of all manner of primary industries in Australia, being particularly well known as the home of the development of the merino sheep breed. Camden Park played a vital roll in the fledgling wine industry through its importation and distribution of vine cuttings throughout NSW and the Barossa Valley. By 1853, Camden Park listed some 33 grape varieties for sale.

Another important figure in the early wine industry was Gregory Blaxland. Blaxland established a vineyard at Ermington on the Parramatta River in 1806 and by 1822 shipped 136 litres of wine to London where it won the Silver Medal of the Society for Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce, now known as the Royal Society of Arts.

Five years later, a larger shipment of 1800 litres of Blaxland's wine won the Gold Ceres Medal.

APÉRITIF PRE-DINNER

Aperitif is a type of drink enjoyed before dinner in order to “open the appetite”.

Most aperitifs are a blend of fortified wines with strong herbal qualities. It's a drink that invites you to slow down and enjoy the moment. And while most of us might not be used to taking the time to leisurely work up to our dinners, it's one routine you won't have trouble getting used to — especially since aperitifs are also known to be accompanied by tasty nibbles such as olives, nuts or canapes.

The aperitif was first introduced with the creation of vermouth in the mid 1700s by Antonio Benedetto Carpano, but it was made popular in France a century later when Joseph Dubonnet, a French chemist, created a wine-based drink that would mask the unpleasant flavor of malaria-fighting quinine. So, despite the fact that this drink was once used mainly for its medicinal properties, it has managed to stick around — and is still enjoyed by many in France, Italy and increasingly getting more popular in Australia. Usually served straight up, chilled or on the rocks (at times with a slice of citrus, too), the aperitif is a simple start to the meal.

What does barrel-aging add to your cocktail?

Essentially, barrel aging a cocktail does the same thing as aging a spirit or wine — it tames the harsher aspects and rounds it out, creating a “more cohesive drink,” as Amberg notes. In the case of something that has bitter elements (Campari, Cynar, Fernet, etc), the barrel helps soften out those bitter notes. Since the barrel is porous itself, there's also oxidation that happens with the cocktail; this adds another layer of flavor to anything that has a wine base (vermouth, aperitifs, etc).

The barrel itself will imbue a lot of character. For example, if a barrel is heavily charred, it will impart more elements of toast. If the contents rest for an extended period like aging, the heavy char will impart bitter caramel notes and add more weight to the cocktail.

If you require extra cocktail alternatives, ask your waiter or bartender for a classic recommendation

GROWER CHAMPAGNE NON-VINTAGE

"Why drink 'grower Champagne'? For me, good wine is above all an expression of place, and the profundity of that expression often reflects the quality of the viticulture involved. Terroir-expressive Champagne may be guided by practices in the winery, but its character originates in the vineyards".

NATURAL & LOW INTERVENTION WHITE Varietals

Natural wines over arching philosophy are non-intervention. From vineyard to cellar the wine is made using quality fruit grown by organic and biodynamic practices and experimental and free-form methods of viticulture. They are cultivated in tune with the 'nature' evident in both the grapes and the territory in which they grow.

Jura is a French wine region that lies between Burgundy and Switzerland. The wines produced here are unique, like most sherries, they are aged under a layer of 'flor', yeast cells that add intrigue and complexity'. This is a cool-climate region, with clay and limestone soils and plenty of Jurassic era fossil matter, hence the name. It's split into four regional appellations: Arbois, Côtes du Jura, L'Etoile, and Château-Chalon. <https://www.organicwine.com.au/what-is-natural-wine>

PINOT MEUNIER

Rarity has long been in this wine's favour, and the price has steadily begun to reflect it. The vines were planted remarkably in 1868.

The wine in the glass is a treat. Not necessarily compelling, but beautifully pitched. My first impression was that the fruit was sweet; my second that it was sour. I kept swinging between the two. Gum leaf, undergrowth, tangy cranberry-like characters, sweet spices, woodsmoke, tobacco maybe and mint. It kind of 'is what it is' in an unhurried, light-ish, charming way, though the wine's lines of tannin and acid are strung taut." Campbell Mattinson, Wine Front

Penfolds Grange is an Australian iconic wine created by legendary winemaker Max Schubert in 1951. About 7 years later in 1957 he has been forced to shut down his project by the company but Max continued his work in secret and production went underground. Three years later in 1960, Max's work officially been recognized by the world. This is the rewards of the patient and his legend continues.

Robert Parker: In 1472, 300 years before the Lur Saluces family acquired the famous Château d'Yquem, they owned Château de Fargues. While de Fargues has never been classified, the quality of the wine produced is brilliant. Still owned by the Lur Saluces family, it receives virtually the identical winemaking care that Yquem does. In some vintages, de Fargues has often been the second-best wine produced in the Sauternes region, and when it is tasted blind, many tasters, including most experts, usually judge it to be Yquem. In all fairness, the wine lacks the ageing potential of Yquem, but when young, the resemblance can be extraordinary.

MADEIRA PORTUGAL

Madeira is produced in a variety of styles ranging from dry wines which can be consumed on their own as an aperitif, to sweet wines more usually consumed with dessert. The islands of Madeira have a long winemaking history, dating back to the Age of Exploration when Madeira was a standard port of call for ships heading to the New World or East Indies. To prevent the wine from spoiling, neutral grape spirits were added. On the long sea voyages, the wines would be exposed to excessive heat and movement which transformed the flavor of the wine. This was discovered by the wine producers of Madeira when an unsold shipment of wine returned to the islands after a round trip. Today, Madeira is noted for its unique winemaking process which involves heating the wine up to temperatures as high as 60 °C (140 °F) for an extended period of time and deliberately exposing the wine to some levels of oxidation. Because of this unique process, Madeira is a very robust wine that can be quite long lived even after being opened.

Tequila is a distilled spirit made from the Agave tequilana Weber Blue, blue agave or Agave Azul, and produced only in five areas of Mexico: Jalisco (where 99% is made and home to the town Tequila) as well as Guanajuato, Michoacan, Tamaulipas and Nayarit – these are known as the Denomination of Origin Tequila (DOT) and recognised as such in more than 40 countries.

There are 166 different species of agave, 125 of which can be found in Mexico but only the Weber Blue (named after the German botanist who first classified the species in 1905 due to the slight blue hue of its green foliage) can be used to make Tequila. These plants are particularly suited to the silicate-rich, red volcanic soils in the region around the city of Tequila with more than 300 million plants harvested there every year.

Mezcal translates from Nahuatl (a native Aztec language) words metl and ixcalli to "oven-cooked agave." It is commonly referred to as "maguey" in Oaxaca, where the majority of mezcal is produced. Depending on the variety of agave used, the plant is harvested in mature states of up to 15 years! As for the mezcal process, mezcal is cooked in an earthen or stone-lined underground pit for a few days. This helps start its signature smoky flavor. From there, the cooked agave is milled and fermented. Once fermentation is complete, everything (juice and fibres) is distilled up to three times.

BAIJIU 白酒

Maotai or Moutai is a brand of baijiu, a distilled Chinese liquor (spirit), made in the town of Maotai in China's Guizhou province. Produced by the state-owned Kweichow Moutai Company, the beverage is distilled from fermented sorghum and now comes in several different varieties.

Maotai originated during the Qing Dynasty (1644–1912), when northern Chinese distillers introduced advanced techniques to local processes to create a distinctive type of baijiu. Thereafter Maotai was produced at several local distilleries. During the Chinese Civil War, People's Liberation Army forces camped at Maotai and partook of the local liquor. Following the Communist victory in the war, the government consolidated the local distilleries into one state-owned company, Kweichow Moutai (the name is an old romanization of "Guizhou Maotai"). It became a popular drink at state functions and one of the country's most popular spirits.

COGNAC

This is the famous Cognac house's top-of-the-line offering, a truly stunning Cognac blended from around 1,200 different eaux-de-vie from the Grande Champagne appellation. The youngest material is at least 40 years old, while some of the spirit was distilled more than 100 years ago.

"Louis XIII is not a Cognac," they say at Rémy. "Put simply, it's a moment." It is the result of three generations of Cellar Masters, resulting from the combined labour of 10,000 people.

Reputedly, this has been a favourite of Elton John, Christian Dior and Winston Churchill. The latter celebrated his election with it in 1951.

The packaging of Louis XIII shares almost as much history as the Cognac itself. The idea for the glass came from an old bottle found by Emile Rémy Martin on a Jarnac battlefield. Since then, the carafe has evolved into its distinguished shape, manufactured by Baccarat since 1936. A solid gold collar encases the neck, which is adorned by a signature fleur-de-lys crystal stopper.
