SUNKEN PRIVATE DINING ROOM

Executive chef Daniel Kwak draws on his Japanese training to create an impeccable union of traditional craftsmanship and contemporary flavours that are sure to delight your guests. Sokyo features slick black polished wood, dark modern tones and fish scale textures. This hyper-modern Japanese theme is carried through to oversized anime graphics placed over the main bar.

Sokyo is located within the lobby of The Darling hotel and is the ideal venue for a private dining experience for up to 100 guests in the main dining room. For exclusive use of Sokyo, pre-event canapes may be served around the stunning lounge and bar area prior to moving through the main dining room to be seated.

The private dining room, complete with its design features, reflects a modern interpretation of Japan. The room caters for up to 40 guests at restaurant round tables or 60 guests cocktail style. Sokyo also offers a Japanese influenced breakfast, perfect for a small morning meeting in the semi-private dining room for up to 20 guests.

DANIEL KWAK

EXECUTIVE CHEF

Daniel Kwak is the Executive Chef of The Star Sydney's Sokyo.

Having been a part of the Sokyo team since 2013, Daniel has been instrumental in shaping Sokyo's brand and identity to what it is today - one of Sydney's finest restaurants renowned for its innovative and elevated take on Japanese cuisine.

Born and raised in Korea, Daniel's family and parents worked in the restaurant industry so he was forever surrounded by the vibrant and bustling world of food. It's little wonder then that he dreamt of becoming a chef from a young age.

After studying in a culinary arts program, Daniel then spent four years living in Fiji where his passion for fresh and sustainable produce grew. As a young and driven chef, Daniel moved to Australia in 2008 and got a job working at Waqu Japanese restaurant as Chef De Partie, where he honed his skills, learning about the combination of Australia's seasonal ingredients and flavours with Japanese cuisine. Daniel also had stints working at Wako Sydney and Grand Walkerhill Seoul.

In 2013, he found himself ready for the next chapter and challenge, and as such, decided to join Sokyo at The Star as Junior Sous Chef.

For the last nine years at Sokyo, Daniel has been expertly mentored by one of Australia's best Japanese chefs, Chase Kojima, whom he credits as always being a big source of inspiration and knowledge. Completely dedicated to his craft, one of Daniel's main focus areas is on umami, ensuring every dish that's served at Sokyo has perfectly balanced flavours and is precisely presented.

In 2019, Daniel was promoted to Executive Chef at Sokyo. After devoting himself to it for 15 years, Daniel has a true love for Japanese cuisine. He says his goal is still the same as it was when he was a young boy - to continue to be the best chef he can with his team.
